ABSTRACT

The directory of educational opportunities has been prepared for counselors of adults in the Syracuse Metropolitan Area. It is intended not only for counselors in educational institutions but also for those working with adults in social and other agencies. The directory is designed to provide enough information so that adults who inquire about learning opportunities may be referred to a specific person at a particular institution or agency where further program details can be explained. Both credit and noncredit continuing education offerings are briefly described. Programs were included if they offered group instruction to the public. Six classifications are listed: universities and colleges, school districts, proprietary institutions, cultural institutions, social agencies and institutions, and organizations and associations. INTRODUCTION

This directory of educational opportunities has been prepared for counselors of adults in the Syracuse Metropolitan Area. We hope it will be useful not only to counselors in educational institutions but also to those working with adults in social and other agencies. The directory is designed to provide enough information so that adults who inquire about learning opportunities may be referred to a specific person at a particular institution or agency where further program details can be explained. Both credit and non-credit continuing education offerings are briefly described. Programs were included if they offered group instruction to the public.

The Metropolitan Syracuse Committee on Continuing Education is a group of leaders from community agencies who have a substantial interest and responsibility for Adult and Continuing Education programs and who wish to be identified in this way. The Committee meets regularly to consider matters of common concern in Adult and Continuing Education and to enable the members to become better acquainted with each other.

This Directory is a revision and expansion of a directory which was initiated by the Metropolitan Syracuse Committee on Continuing Education in 1970-71. The first directory was prepared and distributed by the Library of Continuing Education at Syracuse University. This enlarged directory is being published and distributed by the Regional Learning Service of Central New York, and we are grateful for their leadership and effort.

The Committee suggests this directory as a contribution to and a recognition of the Bicentennial of these United States. As the era of the first 200 years of nationhood evolves into the next era, Adult Education is coming of age. In the next decades, Adult and Continuing Education may well be one of the most influential components molding the nation.

Alexander N. Charters, Chairman
Metropolitan Syracuse Committee on Continuing Education
June, 1975

HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY

Entries in this Directory are by category in the table of contents and are placed alphabetically in the text. To facilitate the locating of entries there is also an alphatetical index at the back. Information for this Directory was gathered directly from the included organizations and verified by mail and by telephone. Unfortunately, some of the information will inevitably become incomplete or out of date. Users are therefore urged to notify us of changes and RLS will serve as a clearinghouse for up-to-date information on all educational opportunities. This may be done by calling or writing the Resource Coordinator at the Regional Learning Service.

Copies of this Directory may be obtained from the Regional Learning Service. RLS is a non-profit educational and career counseling organization, supported by the State and Federal Governments. It serves a brokering function in Central New York, linking interested adults with available learning opportunities.

Comments, suggestions and inquiries about this Directory, sponsored by the Metropolitan Syracuse Committee on Continuing Education, should be directed to the Regional Learning Service.
